Amazon sues thousands of Facebook group administrators over fake reviews

The lawsuit filed in King County Superior Court in Seattle accuses the group adm ins of soliciting reviews for items in exchange for money or free products. One of the groups, "Amazon Product Review," had more than 43,000 members, and allegedly offered refunds or other payment to buyers willing to leave bogus reviews on products like camera tripods and car stereos.

Another group, called "Amazon Varified Buyer & Seller," had more t han 2,500 members, the complaint said. Administrators allegedly sought out fake reviews, and offered them to Amazon sellers, charging $10 per review, according to screenshots of Facebook messages included in the complaint.

Facebook parent company Meta has taken down half of the more than 10,000 groups reported by Amazon, and continues to investigate others, Amazon said.

The case represents Amazon's latest effort to root out fake reviews on its s prawling third-party marketplace. The marketplace now accounts for more than hal f of e-commerce sales and has helped the company bring in record revenue. But fa ke reviews have become more severe as Amazon's online marketplace has grown to amass millions of third-party merchants. Bad actors often seek to boost their product ratings or search ranking by soliciting fake reviews.

Amazon didn't name defendants in the complaint. It named "Jane Does d/b /a [doing business as] Facebook groups creators, admins, and moderators."

Amazon said it has internal teams that scope out fake review purveyors. The team s work with Facebook to close the groups. "Nonetheless, new Facebook groups offering fake reviews continue to appear," the complaint states.

Many of the Facebook groups are private, and require potential new members to pr ovide proof that they're an Amazon seller or reviewer in order to be admitte d. Posters will often try to evade detection by Facebook's moderators by obf uscating the phrase "Refund after review" and instead typing "R fund Aftr Rvew."
