52% during the forecast period (2023-2028).

After the pandemic, the market gained certain momentum and the money supply chain moved, the consumers were seeking certain platforms to promote their capital portfolio, for instance, some of the consumers invested in stocks whereas some of them preferred online gambling platforms, this was because they were offered with several game types and were also easily earning the profits from the capital invested.

Thus, the pandemic has resulted in a growth of the United States online gambling market from the third quarter of fiscal 2021.

Currently, New Jersey is the largest market for regulated online gambling in the United States.

Several sportsbooks and online sports betting apps are live in the state.

With the advent of technology, there has been the widespread implementation of virtual reality, blockchain, and mobile platforms in the gambling industry across the world.

Hence, vendors utilize software suppliers, such as Evolution Gaming, to integrate and develop consumers' gaming experiences.

However, software providers, like Ezugi and Evolution Gaming, have been granted licenses to provide their live dealer games in New Jersey.
