The UK government has pledged to work with the Gambling Commission to implement changes as soon as possible.

Players may get bored while waiting, they may be missing required documents, or struggle with the process, thus potentially turning them away from the gambling website and a loss of customers for the operator.

The UK Gambling Commission's added rules as of September 2022

These rules aim to protect at-risk customers and require operators to:

Playing by the online gambling rules and laws.

There are many regulations and relevant information is provided when applying for a license, however, one of the most important things are no doubt the KYC requirements.

Verification methods such as these can cause issues for customers, as mentioned previously, and its possible users will not want to wait to be verified or simply struggle with the process.

Our automated identity verification solution for the gambling market can easily address the customer experience and be quite secure.
