In February 2023, Amazon filed lawsuits against six defendants in new legal efforts to protect its customers and selling partners by stopping fake review brokers.

In each lawsuit outlined below, the defendants sell fake review services to bad actors attempting to operate Amazon selling accounts. These fraudsters commit fraud by selling fake reviews, intentionally facilitate activities intended to deceive customers, and attempt to provide unfair competitive advantages over honest sellers in Amazon's store.

Amazon's advanced technology and expert investigators stop the vast majority of attempts to publish fake or abusive reviews before they impact customers and honest selling partners. As a result, more than 99% of the products viewed in the store contain only authentic reviews. These lawsuits complement Amazon's efforts to prevent fake reviews by ensuring that the fraudsters behind them are held accountable and stopped for good:

Amazon v. Amazon Feedback: Amazon Feedback is an Estonia-based website owned and operated by two individuals claiming to have 5,000 reviewers available to provide fake positive reviews for $5 each. Case No. 23-2-03320-5 SEA

Amazon v. AMZ Trusted Review: The owners and operators of AMZ Trusted Review claim to pay more than 2,500 reviewers to post fake reviews in Amazon's store in the U.S. and more than 2,000 additional reviewers to post fake reviews in Amazon's stores in the UK, Germany, Italy, Canada, and India. In addition to sending unsolicited emails to Amazon sellers advertising their services, the defendants also suggest prohibited practices that attempt to game Amazon's systems

. Case No. 23-2-03317-5 SEA

Amazon v. Blue Marple: The website, Blue Marple, offers fake positive reviews in packages ranging from $125 for three reviews to $900 for 20 reviews. Case No. 2
