I want to give bettors the advice I wish I was told when I started betting on sports.

The amount of times you will either win or lose a bet by 0.

The margin is small but over the long run that difference adds up.

The transition from fantasy football to the player prop market also wasn't a difficult one and the lines are so much less-efficient than spreads or totals.

1 in this section, having access to multiple books is crucial.

Player props are usually released late Friday or Saturday morning and are ripe for the picking at their opening numbers and often-times are still worth betting as closing numbers.

If you are betting 10% of your bankroll, even strong bettors hitting 55%+ of their plays would go bankrupt with a bad run. Stay Disciplined

" While it by no means guarantees a win, it helps you understand when you are beating a market and by how much.
