For sports bettors, that's where the point spread comes in. For a point spread bet on Kansas City to win, the Chiefs need to win the game by more than one point.

5 underdog in this game, meaning oddsmakers believe they will lose, but only by a point.

Then you'll want to understand the vig/juice on the spread and how much you stand to win.

The amount of money taken in on one side of the spread versus the other. The biggest factor that oddsmakers look at when making a point spread is the difference in skill level between the two teams.

This means that a $100 bet would have paid out $145 if the Bruins had won by two or more goals.

A bettor needed to wager $165 to win $100 on the Stars puck line.
