Over half (57%) of shoppers read reviews while shopping in brick-and-mortar stores to assess potential purchases.

98% of consumers feel that reviews are an essential resource when making purchase decisions, up from 89% in 2018.

Ratings and reviews have become the most important factor impacting purchase decisions, ranking above price, free shipping, brand and recommendations from family and friends. In similar surveys we fielded in 2014 and 2018, price was the most important factor.

Shoppers choose websites based on the availability of reviews.

79% of consumers specifically seek out websites with product reviews, up from 63% in 2018. Millennials are the generation most likely to seek out websites with product reviews - 85% do so.

Negative reviews are an important tool for modern shoppers.

96% of consumers specifically look for negative reviews at least sometimes. In 2018, that number was 85%.

46% of shoppers are suspicious of products with an average star rating of five out of five. This number is even higher - 53% - among Gen Z shoppers.

If you were to get caught gambling in a state or country where it's banned, you could end up facing jail time or landing a hefty fine.

That said, you can still face limitations when using these, such as a small server network, slower speeds or a limited data cap.

You should use a VPN every time you visit online casinos, sports betting websites, or any other site that offers gambling online.
