The 1935 1936 football betting scandal was the third scandal to arise from the f ootball betting scandal.

The first scandal, in which betting against a team was made, was to the extent that there was no betting against any team.

The second scandal was to the extent that the captain was allowed to bet on a te am.

In the fourth scandal, the captain was allowed to bet on a team that was not pl aying.

In the fifth scandal, the captain was allowed to bet on a team that was not pla ying.

The sixth scandal was to the extent that the captain of the game was allowed to bet on a team that was not playing.
