There is always a percent chance of the computer pick being wrong, but in using historical data that measures past matchups of teams with similar statistics, and with taking things like injuries and weather into account, we should improve your chance of victory over time by using these picks.

Game bettors looking for an edge in their betting process have probably stumbled upon other picks sites that have a product to sell you.

We have computer picks for a wide variety of leagues and sports, including:

That is why using computer picks can be very useful as they will dramatically cut down your research time and crunch all the pertinent data to create predictions based on historical trends, how teams match up to one another, and the impact of injuries.

How often does a 3-point favorite with one of the best offenses in the league cover against a team with one of the best defenses? Those are some of the inputs the algorithm will use before creating a prediction based on data from similar matchups.

The underdog cannot lose by more than the spread to win the bet, and if they win the game outright, you also win.

As opposed to a single bet that includes one event with a desired outcome, a parlay is a series of multiple bets on one slip.

Parlays are not easy to win, and while the addition of each leg will increase the amount you can win, it will always decrease your chance of victory.
